Introducing BrainTap Sports, a performance first initiative by BrainTap Technologies, engineered to elevate athletes at every level.

Dr. Patrick Porter:

True performance starts in the mind. That's why we created BrainTap Sports, an initiative dedicated to helping athletes train their brains in the same way they train their bodies.

I'm Dr. Patrick Porter, founder of BrainTap.

I've worked with athletes on every level, from high school competitors to world-class professionals, and I've seen firsthand how mental clarity, focus, and recovery separates those who compete with those who win consistently.

Using science-backed audio and light technology, athletes can reset their minds, manage stress, and perform at their very best when it matters most.

So, I invite you to explore BrainTap, hear from those already using it, and experience for yourself how training your brain can unlock the performance you've always been capable of.

Athlete Liv McGill:

The best part about using BrainTap is the immediate results you get after it and having that visualization aspect and seeing yourself succeed before it even happens.

Athlete Me'arah O'Neal:

BrainTap helps me prepare for big games by helping me relax and also visualizing what I'm gonna do for the game.

Athlete Allison Seitz:

The way I would describe my approach to golf is a mixture of both mental and physical, but way, way heavier on the mental side.

Athlete Maverick Baranowski:

BrainTap helps me sharpen my focus and decision making by just staying calm and relaxed even in the most tense moments. I can just go back to that calm state.

Brian Haukoos:

BrainTaps effect on focus and decision making is key.

If you can get to a calm state, have that level of focus and decision making, that's critical.

Narrator:

Your mind is your most powerful asset. BrainTap Sports trains it to help you push past limits, silence doubt, and stay in the zone, on and off the field.

BrainTap Sports empowers your mind to focus, recover, and thrive.

Elevate your game, recover like a champion, tap into your potential.
